On The Way

The Mass in Slowest Motion: the Offertory, I

The Universal Prayer concludes the Liturgy of the Word. The next part of Mass is the Liturgy of the Eucharist.

The offertory is the first movement of the Liturgy of the Eucharist. Saint Justin Martyr (c. 155) gives a rather terse description of it: Then someone brings bread and a cup of water and wine mixed together to him who presides over the brethren. Of course, there is more to the offertory than just the practical matter of getting things to the altar. After all, it's the offertory, the ceremony by which we contribute our offerings to Christ's perfect offering to the Father. So, on more solemn occasions members of the faithful bring the bread and wine in procession down the main aisle to show that what is placed on the altar represents the offerings of the faithful and indeed the faithful themselves.

The priest then presents the bread and the wine. First, he acknowledges that they are God's gifts to us: Blessed are you, Lord God of all creation, for through your goodness we have received the bread/wine we offer you. A simple prayer, but it expresses the truth that our capacity to offer worship to God comes only through His goodness.

Then the second part of the prayer: fruit of the earth/fruit of the vine and work of human hands, it will become for us the bread of life/our spiritual drink. Notice the human investment involved: the bread and wine are the work of human hands. We might not immediately grasp the significance of this since we get our bread and wine quite easily (even during a pandemic). But the actual making of bread and wine involves quite an investment: planting, cultivating, harvesting, grinding, sifting, crushing, baking and fermenting. Not to mention the anxiety that at any point in that long process something could go wrong and ruin the whole thing. So, we should understand the bread and wine as an expression of our lives and our labors.

Another moment in the offertory conveys a similar point. In preparing the chalice, the priest pours in first wine and then a few drops of water. This action, probably already a custom in Mediterranean cultures, has taken on a theological significance expressed in the prayer that accompanies it: By the mystery of this water and wine may we come to share in the divinity of Christ who humbled himself to share in our humanity. The wine signifies the divinity of Christ. That drop of water signifies our union with Him and our receiving a share in His divinity. This little ritual signifies our participation in the Sacrifice of Christ, that in the Mass we are able to offer ourselves in union with Him.

The priest, having placed the bread and wine to be consecrated on the altar bows and says, With humble spirit and contrite heart may we be accepted by you, O Lord, and may our sacrifice in your sight this day be pleasing to you, Lord God. The prayer, drawn almost entirely from the prophet Daniel, humbly expresses our desire that what we offer will be pleasing to God and beneficial to us.

How can I continue my offertory gift to St. James Parish when there is no public Mass?

Dear Friends in Christ, Thank you for your continued support during the COVID-19 pandemic.

We are deeply humbled and touched by your prayers, emails, letters, and offertory donations. In the past three weeks, over 40 parishioners have switched to on-line giving via Faith Direct. That doesn't include the generous one-time Easter gifts given to Saint James Parish via mailed checks and on-line donations. Thank you so much! It is sacrificial gifts like yours that enable us to keep our doors open and continue to serve the needs of our parish community.

If you are interested in signing up for Faith Direct you can do so via this link:

<https://membership.faithdirect.net/VA50>. For other ways to give, please visit our donation page at:

<https://www.stjamescatholic.org/stewardship/donating-to-st-james-catholic-church>.

Again, thank you for your calls, prayers, well wishes, and desire to continue to support the mission of Saint James Parish, which exists to bring the Gospel of Jesus Christ to all souls in need.

May God Bless you and your families during this time of difficulty,

Father Paul Scalia
