On The Way

The Mass in Slowest Motion: Saints and Conclusions

After interceding for the dead, the priest turns his attention back to us. Striking his breast, he acknowledges our need for God's compassion: To us, also, your servants, who, though sinners, hope in your abundant mercies... Notice the kind of mercy asked for: not simply freedom from sin but holiness and sanctity —some share and fellowship with [the] holy Apostles and Martyrs.

Then comes a list of some such apostles and martyrs. John the Baptist, the cousin and forerunner of Christ, heads the list. After him follow seven men and seven women. Some we know directly from Scripture: Stephen, the deacon and first martyr; Matthias, who took the place of Judas in the college of the Twelve; and Barnabas, Paul's companion in his missionary journeys.

Others we know from the history of the early Church. Ignatius, the bishop of Antioch, while en route to martyrdom in Rome wrote a series of letters to churches that remain important spiritual and theological reading. Alexander was the fifth Pope. Marcellinus the priest and Peter the exorcist were beheaded outside of Rome during the persecution of Diocletian.

Then follows the list of women: Felicity, a Roman mother of seven martyred children who herself was martyred; Felicity, a noblewoman martyred in Carthage; Agatha of Catania in Sicily who died in prison after considerable torture and suffering; Lucy, another Sicilian saint, who was executed in the Diocletian persecution; Agnes of Rome; Cecilia, also of Rome, the patroness of musicians; and Anastasia, who was martyred in present day Serbia.

Notice that our veneration of these saints is directed to sharing their fellowship: admit us, we beseech you, into their company, not weighing our merits, but granting us your pardon. It is an appeal for the grace to imitate them in their sacrifices for Christ.

The priest summarizes these prayers and indeed the entire prayer through Christ our Lord. Then referring to the offering before him on the altar, he says, Through whom you continue to make all these good things, O Lord; you sanctify them, fill them with life, bless them, and bestow them upon us.

Finally, the eucharistic prayer reaches its culmination in the doxology, the concluding verse of praise to the Father: Through him, and with him, and in him, O God, almighty Father, in the unity of the Holy Spirit, all glory and honor is yours, for ever and ever. As he speaks (or sings) these words, the priest lifts up the chalice and paten. This is traditionally known as the "minor elevation." Its purpose is not to show the host and chalice to the people, as with the prior two elevations. Rather, he lifts the paten and chalice as a way of presenting them – that is, Christ Himself – to the Father.

This prayer and gesture encapsulates the Catholic life. At all times we should seek to give glory and honor to the Father – through, with, and in Christ – in the unity of the Holy Spirit.

Next week: The Lord's Prayer

First Communions at St. James

Please join us in congratulating the 87 young St. James parishioners who have made, or will be making, their First Communions over the next few weeks. While we typically celebrate First Communion in May, due to the Covid-19 pandemic, we had to make alternate plans. The first group of Communicants made their First Communions on Saturday, July 18. Group Two will make theirs on Saturday, July 25, and the last group will make theirs on Saturday, August 8. Please pray for these young people at this vital step of their faith formation.
