On The Way

Summary Catechesis on Creation

"This is the era of sin against God the Creator" (Pope Emeritus Benedict XVI). There are many forms of rebellion against God. But our era rebels against God in His most fundamental relation to us, as Creator. To achieve complete autonomy, we need to forget the Creator, or even that we are created. It's much easier to do what we want and redefine ourselves without Him.

Many problems in society and the Church come from a misunderstanding or ignorance of our beginnings. To know who we are, our strengths and weaknesses, how we err and how we are saved, we need to return to the beginning. This series on creation has sought to do just that. Herewith, a summary of those truths about us.

Created. We have always struggled to accept our creatureliness, that He is God and we are not. But now there are ideologies that reject the notion that we are created at all. In contrast, we must root ourselves in our creaturely status; we receive our existence from Him.

Human nature. Our whole view of society, of rights and obligations, of the necessity and limits of the state rests on the acceptance of a common human nature. Either the human person is a particular kind of being, with certain qualities and faculties that we all share...or there is no such thing as human nature, and the basis of our society unravels.

God's image and likeness. This is a great dignity and a great task. A dignity, because we are God's "vice-regent," His representative to all creation. A task, because we must discharge that duty faithfully, in obedience to Him and out of respect for creation. To image God means to use our intellect to seek the truth and our will to choose the good. Anything less than that tarnishes the image.

Harmony. From the beginning, all creation was to be a harmonious whole – from the outer cosmos to our very souls, all was in order.

Body and soul. To be human means to be body and soul together, one organic whole. The body is not something we possess but part of who we are.

Male and female. Science and revelation teach us the two ways of being human: male and female. The equality and distinction between man and woman is God's own design. It is ordered towards their union, which is a sign of God's union with us, Christ's union with the Church.

Wounded. All the disharmony and disorder we experience – in creation, among ourselves, and within ourselves – is the result of a primordial rebellion against God called original sin. Thus, we speak of a "fallen world," in which natural disasters, disease, famine, wars, and conflicts are not uncommon or unexpected. These are wounds to creation and our human nature.

Redeemed. Finally, we are promised a Redeemer. God tells the serpent that the woman's descendent shall crush his head (Gen 3:15). The beauty and harmony of creation can only be restored from the outside. The division within and among us can only be healed by a Savior. Christ has come to restore the original meaning of creation. We in turn have a responsibility to conform ourselves to Him, the Son of God. "For creation awaits with eager expectation the revelation of the children of God" (Rom 8:19).

History of The Bánica Mission

Next week's second collection, August 21-22, will benefit the Bánica Mission in the Dominican Republic. To donate online to the Bánica Mission Annual Appeal, go to membership.faithdirect.net/givenow/VA50/39242.

Here are Father Scalia's thoughts on the importance of this Mission:

"In February of 2009 I had the privilege of visiting our diocesan missions in Bánica and Pedro Santana. With my classmate and friend Father Chris Murphy, I traveled up into the mountains, to the campos – the more than 60 surrounding rural communities that the priests could only get to once a month, at most. It was amazing to see the missionary work of the Church in the Dominican Republic. The missionaries bring the light and supernatural hope of the Gospel to the people. Their work also brings the simple helps to natural human development, such as education, infrastructure work, medicine, and so on."

To learn more about Bánica, go to: <https://arlingtonmissions.org/banica-mission/> Thank you in advance for your generosity and goodness!

Sunday, August 15-Feast of the Assumption of Mary

This weekend is the Feast of the Assumption of Mary which falls on a Sunday this year. We will have our normal Mass schedule on this day. Because of this, the second collection in honor of this Feast will be combined with our normal offertory collection. To donate online to this special offertory collection, go to: membership.faithdirect.net/givenow/VA50/3363.

In reflecting on the Solemnity of the Assumption, Pope Francis said that Mary "is the model of faith and virtue," and in contemplating her assumption into heaven, we give her thanks "because she always precedes us on the pilgrimage of life and faith."

"My soul proclaims the greatness of the Lord." Luke 1:46
