On The Way

Technology and the Tree: Taming Technology

We're not the first culture to struggle with technology. Plato expressed his misgivings about the invention of writing. In the 15th century the printing press changed society drastically, especially education. Like today, the sudden change in media required an adjustment of the entire civilized world.

Now, the fact that we've continued as a species and civilization since the advent of writing and the printing press indicates that those inventions were probably okay. Still, they took some discipline and getting used to. The author and media theorist Neil Postman points out that after the printing press the number of schools in Europe skyrocketed in response to all the new literature suddenly flooding society. Schools emerged as the means to manage the glut of information. They filtered out the good and useful from the bad and frivolous.

So, our ancestors show that technology requires discipline. And our discipline must be as superior to theirs as our technology is more advanced. We need to establish rules for ourselves and for our children, so that we can use our technology and not be used by it.

Boundaries. Each thing is good in its place. Once a thing is dislocated, it becomes dangerous. A river is good within the riverbank and frightening outside of it. So also, technology is good as a tool and frightening as a way of life (which is how it's sold). To keep it as a tool means that we must restrict its use from certain times, events, and places.

This only happens if we make specific, concrete resolutions: Wait at least one hour after rising before picking up a device; Ban devices from the table; Shut off alerts during meetings (unless, of course, you are on call); Establish a shut down time for the day. For example, at 9 pm all devices are silenced and put away – and not sitting on the nightstand or in the bedroom. Oh, and there is no need for cell phones in church.

Face time. Not using Facetime but having face time. Authentic human communication is in person, face to face. Everything else is just an approximation and/or stop gap. Emailing, texting, zooming, etc. are helpful only until we can be with one another in person. Don't use them as a substitute but visit or even call the person for a conversation. And communicate bad or difficult news in person, not by electronics.

Children. There are few things worse for children than unlimited and unmonitored screen time and social media access. For young children, the more time in front of a screen means less time learning how to interact with real people. For adolescents, social media enables them to be elsewhere and live a virtual life. It also opens the door to incredibly dangerous influences. It introduces girls into the world of comparison, envy, competition, insecurity, bullying, etc. It exposes boys to the ubiquitous pornographers who seek to hook them as loyal customers from an early age.

Children don't need smart phones. If you need a way to stay in touch with them, get a "dumb phone" or some other device that limits screen use and social media access (e.g. The Light Phone or Gabb Wireless). And children certainly don't need them after a certain hour. Have a set time (e.g. 9 pm) at which the children's phones are not in their hands or in their rooms but in a common space, turned off, and plugged in.

– Fr. Scalia

Social Outreach Committee

Adopt-A-Family Christmas Program

Parishioners can provide much needed holiday cheer by sponsoring a specified family and ensuring they have gifts and a holiday meal for Christmas. Many of these families were previously homeless and need to conserve their income for rent, food, and other necessities.

Advent Season Gift Card Donations

By providing this matching gift, this couple hopes to inspire many donations to Saint James Catholic School. Every dollar you donate will be matched up to $40,000. It is our hope that this matching gift will help us achieve our $80,000 goal in record time.
