From Our Seminarian

In today's Gospel, the apostles confront a challenge that we often face even today: the need for solitude. Of course, the twelve encounter this issue in the context of their nascent priestly ministry, but surely every parent knows how they feel. Children coming and going in great numbers – school, practices, friends' houses, doctors – sometimes mom and dad don't have a moment to themselves, not even to eat!

Jesus knows and understands our occasional need to take a break from the demands of the other people in our lives. In this Gospel, He encourages His chosen followers to take a break from their flock to rest and pray. We also know that He Himself feels this need. Over the three years of His public ministry, He frequently retreated to mountains or deserts or boats or gardens to be alone with the Father.

Going out of our way to pray and rest in solitude can never be considered lazy or irresponsible, not when Our Lord explicitly instructed His apostles to do so, and even did so Himself! On the contrary, it's a necessary aspect of the spiritual life. But why? What purpose does it serve? In short, it orients our daily lives and routines towards God – and that's the only way we can carry on in our tiring lives and ministries.

We don't undertake the hectic demands of family life solely for the sake of our children or relatives. In fact, we don't undertake any act of service or ministry for the sake of the other – we do it for God. God is the true source of family life, the communion of the whole Church, and the brotherhood of all humanity. Our families will pass away one day, and, eventually we will all find ourselves unable to carry out our ministry. Only God is eternal, and only by recognizing that our service to others is oriented towards the glory of Him who will never pass away can we maintain the energy we need. Sometimes, we can do this best by momentarily escaping the company of others, even those whom we love, to seek solitude and solace in Him who loves us the most.

~Tim Courtney

The Consolation of Philosophy Book Study Continues July 25 With our Seminarian Tim Courtney

Have you ever felt unhappy? Ever been the victim of Injustice? Or wondered what the point of your life is?

If you're a human being, you can probably answer 'yes' to these questions. Good news: Roman consul, senator, and Saint Severinus Boethius can help explain – and he did so 1,500 years ago!

Join St. James seminarian Tim Courtney for a summer book study on St. Boethius' Consolation of Philosophy. A seminal work of the Western philosophical tradition, Consolation is a profound meditation on human happiness and fulfillment, the nature of God, good, and evil, and why bad things happen to good people.

The second session, entitled "The Goods of Fortune" will be Wednesday, July 25 at 7:30pm in the House of Ministries (913 Park Ave.), and will cover book two of the work. A few copies of the book are available.

For more information email Tim Courtney at tcourtney@stjamescatholic.org.

The Feast of St. James – July 25

July 25 marks the Feast of St. James the Apostle. St. James, the son of Zebedee, and brother of John the Apostle, was one of Christ's first apostles and was only one of three apostles chosen by Jesus to witness His transfiguration. During his life, St. James traveled to the area now known as Santiago de Compostela to proclaim the Gospel. Returning to Judea, he was beheaded by Herod Agrippa in 44 A.D., becoming the first martyr of the Church. His companions then carried his body to the Galician coast, burying him under the cathedral at Santiago de Compostela. The traditional pilgrimage route to St. James' grave, known as the "Way of St. James," has been followed by pilgrims since the Middle Ages. To watch a short video on St. James' life, please visit:
