On The Way

Farewells

Dear friends in Christ, the past several weeks have seen two members of our parish community depart.

First, Chris Hughes, our Director of Advancement for many years, has departed for More. Literally. She will be working at Saint Thomas More Cathedral with Father Posey. For the past ten years, Chris did wonderful work promoting the parish and school, building up our planned giving program, improving alumni relations, marketing, and other charitable donation opportunities. Her efforts were an important part of the current financial health of the parish. She brought to her job both professionalism and, since she grew up at Saint James, a personal zeal. Her good work and her good cheer will be missed. We pray for her success at Saint Thomas More.

(We are now looking for candidates for the Director of Advancement position.)

Second, Joey Connor, our summer seminarian, departed last weekend. He is now back at Mount Saint Mary's Seminary beginning his second year of theology. Unfortunately, not many of you got to know Joey as well as you could have because an illness took him out of his assignment for almost an entire month. Nevertheless, when he returned Joey got right back into the mix of things. He was diligent in visiting the homebound, assisting at Mass, teaching classes, and (as always in a parish) taking on other duties as assigned. Joey always displayed a genuine and joyful evangelical zeal.

The other priests and I enjoyed having Joey with us in the rectory. He was always cheerful, prayerful, and thoughtful. Not bad qualities in a candidate for the priesthood! Please keep Joey in your prayers as he continues in seminary formation.

There is another farewell. But it's not to a person. Let me explain.

This past week Bishop Burbidge promulgated new liturgical norms for the Diocese of Arlington. These norms will bring about more unity and reverence in the liturgical practice throughout the Diocese. They actually introduce little new to our practices at Saint James. But they do provide an opportunity for us to review how we do things, what we do well, and what we can do better. As such, I will be reaching out to our lectors, extraordinary ministers of Holy Communion, and ushers in the coming months to review our practices.

Now, in reviewing the new norms and other liturgical documents, one necessary change came to light. The Church's instructions on the Liturgy call for the processional cross to be a crucifix — that is, an image of the crucified Christ. Our current processional cross, however, depicts the risen Christ. Given the liturgical requirements, we need to say farewell to the current processional cross. Well, not a total farewell, because we can repurpose the cross for use outside of Mass. But we will need to purchase a new processional cross — one that announces by its beauty and dignity the power of our Lord's Sacrifice and therefore of the Mass.

- Fr. Scalia

Stewardship

Time to Face the Changes

Today's Gospel is jarring as it might be easy to think that Jesus wishes to see division in the sense of war rather than peace. But, what our Lord was telling us, is that when we get used to something—wealth, privilege, personal comfort, the daily routine—it can be hard for us to change and embrace new things, new thoughts, new personal circumstances. Jesus challenges us to realize that following His word is hard and involves us changing much about ourselves and our outlook on life if we are to follow Him. He challenges us to come together, to abandon those ways that keep us from Him, and to follow Him with a burning passion.

On Vacation? Traveling for business?
